WASHINGTON, D.C. -- U.S. Rep. Nick Rahall (D-WV) announced that the 13th Annual Congressional High School Art Exhibition will open today with a ribbon cutting ceremony at noon in the Caucus Room of the Cannon House Office Building in Washington, D.C.

The exhibition will feature the winning entries from District contests conducted by the 263 Members. Highlighted in the collection of paintings, drawings and prints will be "Stranger in Town" by Tara Chavez, the winning entry from West Virginia's 3rd Congressional District art competition.

The Mullens High School senior's charcoal drawing depicts a lone figure standing under a lamp-post. It will be displayed in a corridor leading to the U.S. Capitol through May 1995. Tara's high school teacher is Richard Hall.

"Tara's ability to masterfully evoke emotions makes her one of the most talented young artists that I have seen in recent years. I congratulate her on a job well done and wish her the best of luck in the future," says Rahall.
